A: The short answer is that the expression only works when the only thing there is to search for are tags and/or the tags can take a variable number of attributes. It is not sufficient to just have some sort of separator, such as a space or a tab. If there are two attributes in the tag, the expression will try to match both of them. The problem you are encountering with your tag separator/spaces is that there are additional things in the body of the div that you are not searching for.

I would therefore suggest to either avoid using spaces in your tag attributes and instead use `​` for the separator in the attribute. Or to use an expression to do the correct matching, based on the content of the tag body. The expression should not look for the tag, but for text you are interested in.

Q: How to change the time format in Navigation drawer? I am using the default time format in my navigation drawer as this: But I want to show the time the way I want it to be like this: I want this time format in both the date and time. A: Use this to display the current time in a desired format. `SimpleDateFormat`

simpleDateFormat = new SimpleDateFormat("MM-dd-yyyy hh:mm:ss"); String now = simpleDateFormat.format(new Date());

Q: Word or phrase for "I don't understand what you're saying" What word or phrase would you use to represent, "I don't understand what you're saying". I've heard "I don't follow" but, to be honest, that sounds super stiff and not very natural at all, especially in a business context.

A: Maybe 'don't get' is what you want - meaning to communicate "I don't understand what you're telling me". The word 'get' is often used in a sentence like that. You can definitely just say 'I don't understand', or 'I don't understand what you're trying to tell me'. A: I wouldn't say "I don't understand" but "I don't follow", which is commonly used
